Art Unit: 2834

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 4, 6, 7, 9 and 36 are rejected under 35 USC 103 as being unpatentable over Yamaguchi in view of Taihaku. Yamaguchi (see figure 4) teaches an ultrasonic motor comprising a movable member #134 (figure 9), a substrate for conveying a drive signal from a drive circuit #125a, #125b, a support member mechanically fixing and electrically connecting at a nodal point #124a, #124b. It appears that some electrical connections are made with the use of jumper wires. Taihaku teaches providing all the electrical connections and all support connections at nodal areas for a piezoelectric vibrating element so that the device will not be damped by connections made at non-nodal locations. The vibrating device is also mounted on to a printed circuit board #6. Thus, in order to reduce damping of the vibrating element it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to eliminate any jumper wires used by Yamaguchi.

Claims 43-46, 48, 50 and 51 are rejected under 35 USC 103 as being unpatentable over Kasuga (6,081,063) in view of Taihaku. Kasuga (figure 1A, 1B) teaches the specific laminated dual-mode vibrator which appears to be mounted at a nodal location. It is unclear how the electrical connections are made between the necessary support structure and the vibrating element. However, as taught by Taihaku and as noted above, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide all electrical and mechanical connections to Kasuga at nodal locations to prevent damping of the vibrations.

Claims 41 and 42 are allowed.

Claims 37-40, 47, 49 and 52-58 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
